Dublin, September 13.

ON Sunday September the 4th, his Grace John Duke of Bedford, Chancellor of the Univerſity, landed in Dublin, and was conducted to his Apartments in the Houſe of the Right Honourable the Provoſt of Trinity College, where the Fellows and Profeſſors attended to congratulate his Grace on his Arrival.

Friday September the 9th, being the Day appointed for the Inſtallation of his Grace, the neceſſary Orders were iſſued, and the Great Hall of Trinity College prepared and decorated for the Solemnity.

On the Eaſt End a grand Platform was erected, covered with green Cloth and rich Carpeting, and ſeparated from the lower Area by an elegant Balluſtrade; at the Extremity of which, directly fronting the Great Door, his Grace the Chancellor's Chair of State was placed in an Alcove adorned with a rich Canopy of Silk Damaſk. On the Right Side of the Platform were placed Chairs of State for his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Townſhend: The lower Part of the Hall was formed into a Theatre for the Reception of Ladies and Students of the ſeveral Orders; and on the Weſt End was erected, over the Great Door, a magnificent Orcheſtra, in which was placed a full Band of vocal and inſtrumental Performers.

At Twelve o'Clock his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Townſhend entered the Hall through a full and brilliant Aſſembly of Ladies, preceded by the Lord High Chancellor of Ireland with the Purſe, and attended by their Officers of State.

As ſoon as the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Townſhend had taken their Seats, the Proceſſion of the Univerſity advanced from the Regent-Room to the Hall, through a numerous Crowd of Spectators, in the following Order: Under Graduates, Batchelors of Arts, Maſters of Arts, Batchelors of Laws, Phyſic, and Divinity, in the Gowns and Hoods of their reſpective Orders; Doctors of Muſic, Laws, Phyſic, and Divinity, in the Habits of their Degrees; Students, Sons of Noblemen, viz. the Honourable Mr. Townſhend, eldeſt Son of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, and the Honourable Mr. Croſbie, eldeſt Son of Lord Branden; Senior Fellows of Trinity College; the Right Honourable Lord Viſcount Clanwilliam, A. B. Earl of Mornington, Profeſſor of Muſic; Earl of Laneſborough, Doctor of Laws; the Mace and Proctors. THE CHANCELLOR, ſupported by his Grace the Lord Primate and the Right Honourable the Provoſt, and attended by a numerous Train of Nobility, Biſhops in their Robes, Privy-Councellors, Lord Mayor and High Sheriffs of the City of Dublin, and other Perſons of Rank and Diſtinction, moſt of whom had formerly been Members of the Univerſity.

The ſeveral Orders of the Univerſity having arrived at their reſpective Seats, and the Senior Fellows, Noblemen and Sons of Noblemen, with the Doctors of ſeveral Faculties, being ranged on the Left Side of the Platform, his Grace advanced to the Foot of his Chair, where he ſtood while the Inſtrument of his Election was read, and then was conducted into his Chair by his Grace the Lord Primate, Vice-Chancellor, and the Provoſt, attended by the Body of Senior Fellows. The Provoſt then delivered to his Grace a Book of Statutes, grandly decorated, (while the Mace and other Inſignia were laid before him) declaring his Inveſtiture, in a ſhort Latin Form, and, in the Name of the Univerſity, promiſing due Obedience to his Grace in the Office of Chancellor.

The Duke then roſe and addreſſed himſelf to the Aſſembly, expreſſing his Senſe of the Honour now conferred upon him, his ſincere Attachment to the Univerſity and to the Kingdom, and his particular Acknowledgments to the Provoſt and Senior Fellows: The Elegance and Propriety with which his Grace's Sentiments were delivered made a very extraordinary Impreſſion upon all his Hearers.

The Vice Chancellor, Provoſt, and Senior Fellows having now retired to their Seats, and the whole Aſſembly being ſeated, the Provoſt roſe in his Place, and delivered the Inſtallation Speech in Latin, which was heard with profound Attention, and received with an uncommon and juſtly merited Applauſe.

[Price Three-Pence.]

This was ſucceeded by the Performance of an Ode ſet to Muſick by the Earl of Mornington, whoſe extraordinary Talents were moſt eminently diſplayed on this Occaſion.

His Grace the Chancellor then opened the COMITIA, and, after a ſhort Speech in Latin by Dr. Wilder, Senior Proctor, the ſeveral Candidates for Degrees were preſented and admitted, viz. Four Doctors of Divinity, two Doctors of Phyſick, three Doctors of Laws, one Doctor of Muſick, three Maſters of Arts, one Batchelor of Arts, and one Batchelor of Muſick.

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Townſhend then retired with the Officers and Nobility that attended them: After which the Proceſſion of the Univerſity returned in Order to the Provoſt's Houſe.

His Excellency, together with the Nobility and Gentry who had attended the Solemnity, were entertained at Dinner in the New Hall by his Grace the Chancellor, Provoſt and Fellows. The whole Ceremonial of the Day was conducted without the leaſt Diſorder, and the Younger Students received Public Thanks from the Provoſt and Senior Fellows for the Decency and Propriety of their Behaviour.

On Sunday the 11th Inſtant, his Grace took his Seat in the Chapel, and attended Divine Service. A Te Deum, Jubilate, and two Anthems, compoſed by the Right Honorable the Profeſſor of Muſick, were performed by the Gentlemen of the Choirs of Chriſt-Church and St. Patrick, and an excellent Sermon, adapted to the Occaſion, was preached by the Rev. Dr. Diſney, Regius Profeſſor of Divinity.

On Tueſday the 13th his Grace viſited the Schools and other Parts of the Univerſity: In the Natural Philoſophy School he was addreſſed by the Hon. Mr. Crosbie in a Copy of Engliſh Verſes; and, being entertained for ſome Time by a Number of curious Experiments, he proceeded to the Library, where, having viewed the Books, Manuſcripts, and Medals, Dr. Leland, Profeſſor of Oratory, took Leave of his Grace in a ſhort elegant Engliſh Speech, to which his Grace returned a moſt obliging Anſwer: His Grace has been pleaſed to expreſs his entire Satisfaction with the Reception he has met with; and it is with the higheſt Pleaſure the Univerſity obſerve the undeniable Proofs of Regard, Reſpect, and Veneration, which his Grace has received from all Ranks and Denominations of People.
